General Information for Nonresident Aliens

Social Security Taxes (FICA): Students holding an F-1 or J1 visa are exempt from FICA for the first 5 CYs they are in the U.S. A student is exempt from FICA during any term in which he/she is registered for and regularly attending classes, regardless of resident or nonresident status. FICA must be withheld in any term the resident alien student is not registered and regularly attending classes, such as during the summer months. Social Security taxes are not withheld on (non-service) fellowships. Teachers and researchers holding a J-1 visa are exempt from FICA for either the first 2 CYs they are in the U.S. or for 2 out of the last 6 CYs in the U.S. Once a NRA becomes eligible for the SPT and eventually meets it's requirements, he/she becomes a resident alien for tax purposes and FICA withholding begins retroactive to January 1st of the CY in which the substantial presence is established.

Social Security Number: All nonresident aliens must have a valid social security number.

State of Maryland Income Taxes: NRAs pay State of Maryland Income taxes, unless they are a resident of D.C., Virginia, or Pennsylvania. There are no treaty articles exempting nonresident aliens from Maryland Income taxes.

Federal Income Taxes: Nonresident aliens may be exempt from Federal Income Taxes if they are from a country with a Tax Treaty that grants such an exemption. Tax treaties may contain exemptions that are dependent on the type of payment, type of employee, amount of payment, and/or length of stay in United States. The common types of payments are: wages or compensation, fellowships, honorariums, and Independent Contractor (I/C) fees. Wages may be paid to employees who are students, undergraduate or graduate, and researchers or teachers. Treaty articles applicable to students generally are exempt only a portion of the wages (the first $2,000 to $5,000, depending on the country of residence) from taxation. Assuming there is an applicable treaty article, all wages paid to employees whose primary function is to teach or conduct research will generally Be exempt for a two or three year period. Fellowships may be paid to undergraduate or graduate students as grants-in-aid for which no services are required.

Procedures for processing honorariums and I/C fees are available in the Payroll Manual.
